

Release Scheduling

In order to deliver your releases and process all additional feature request information, we ideally recommend a 5 week lead time from the date in which you submit your release to Final and the official release date. If 5 weeks is too long we recommend no less than 2 weeks, but if needed you can set a release to Final with as little as a few days, as we can deliver your release to stores within 48hrs. Although this is not recommended as all though we can get your release to the stores within 48hrs the majority of stores need much longer to ingest your content.

Our system also gives you the capabilities to specify individual stores where you wish to release your music exclusively for a certain period of time and at a higher revenue rate.
